

Here are the steps to convert a overseas driver's license to an Australian New South Wales (NSW) driver's license with accompanying links:

1. Confirm eligibility: Before applying for an NSW driver's license, you must confirm that you are eligible to do so. You must be at least 16 years old and have been a resident of NSW for at least three months.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/transfer-overseas-driver-licence>

2. Gather required documents: You will need to provide several documents to prove your identity, residency, and driving experience. These may include your Indian driver's license, passport, visa or residency documents, and proof of address in NSW.

Gather Documents

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/guide/getting-a-nsw-driver-licence>

3. Pass an eyesight test: You must pass an eyesight test to ensure that you can see well enough to drive safely.

<https://www.nsw.gov.au/driving-boating-and-transport/driver-and-rider-licences/health-conditions-and-disability/fitness-to-drive/eyesight-testing>

4. Complete the Driver Knowledge Test: You will need to pass the Driver Knowledge Test, which covers road rules and safe driving practices in NSW. You can study for this test using the NSW Road Users Handbook, which is available online.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/book-driver-knowledge-test-dkt>

!

5. Book a practical driving test: Once you have passed the Driver Knowledge Test, you can book a practical driving test with the Roads and Maritime Services (RMS) in NSW. During this test, you will need to demonstrate your ability to drive safely on the roads.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/book-driver-or-rider-licence-test>

6. Obtain an NSW learner driver license: If you pass the practical driving test, you will be issued with an NSW learner driver license. This allows you to practice driving under the supervision of a fully licensed driver.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/apply-for-a-learner-driver-licence>

7. Complete the required driving hours: To progress to a provisional (P1) license, you will need to complete at least 120 hours of supervised driving, including at least 20 hours of night driving.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/apply-provisional-p1-driver-licence>

8. Pass the Hazard Perception Test: Before you can apply for a provisional (P1) license, you must pass the Hazard Perception Test, which assesses your ability to identify and respond to potential hazards on the road.

<https://www.service.nsw.gov.au/transaction/book-hazard-perception-test-hpt>

9. Apply for a provisional (P1) license: Once you have completed the required driving hours and passed the Hazard Perception Test, you can apply for a provisional (P1) license. This allows you to drive unsupervised, but with certain restrictions, such as a maximum speed limit and zero blood alcohol limit.

10. Progress to a full license: After holding a provisional (P1) license for at least 12 months, you can progress to a provisional (P2) license. After holding a P2 license for at least two years, you can apply for a full NSW driver's license.

<https://www.nsw.gov.au/driving-boating-and-transport/driver-and-rider-licences/driver-licences/provisional-p2-licence>

It's important to note that the exact requirements and procedures for obtaining an NSW driver's license may vary depending on your individual circumstances, so be sure to check the RMS website for the most up-to-date information.

It should be noted that holders of driver's licenses from certain countries may be exempt from taking the test. These countries include Austria, Belgium, Canada, Croatia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guernsey, Ireland, Isle of Man, Italy, Japan, Jersey, Luxembourg, Malta, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Singapore, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, and the United States.

Prepare for the test:

<https://www.nsw.gov.au/driving-boating-and-transport/driver-and-rider-licences/licence-publications#RoadUsers'Handbook>

Recognized Country A

Holders of a class C (car) and/or R (rider) equivalent licence from one of the following countries are exempt from computer and driving tests when applying for a NSW licence of the same class:

Austria, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Canada, Croatia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guernsey, Ireland, Isle of Man (licenses issued since 1 April 1991), Italy, Japan, Jersey, Luxembourg, Malta (licenses issued or renewed since 2 January 2004), Netherlands, New Zealand (except where a paper licence is presented), Norway, Portugal, Singapore, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, USA.